SITUATION REPORT

A selection of recent reports from Sri Lankan newspapers, without comment, Readers are requested to form their own conclusions.

'Pakistan a better friend'

"President J.R. Jayewardene has in an interview with the Australian Broadcasting Corporation (ABC) which is reported in the 'Hindu' said India was maintaining double standards with respect to Sri Lanka and that Sri Lanka cannot be friendly with a person with double standards. Mr. Jayewardene is also reported to have said that Pakistan was a better friend of Sri Lanka than India."

"In an interview with John Mills of Australian Broadcasting Corporation (ABC), portions of which were broadcast today by Radio Australia, Mr. Jayewardene spoke at length on the activities of the Tamil militants in the North and East, Sri Lanka's relations with India and Pakistan, and his conditions for holding talks with the Tamil militants..." — (The Island — 21.4.86)

Air Lanka Boeing on lease

"Air Lanka will lease out one of its Boeing 747-200 aircraft to Egypt Air in what the airline's chairman, Rakitha Wikramanayake, described as the best deal yet with a foreign carrier. Egypt Air will pay 425,000 US dollars a month for two years, for the aircraft 'King Tissa', which was bought last year from Qantas Airways for 32 million US dollars. Capt. Wikramanayake said Airlanka would reap a 115,000 dollars profit a month from the deal, after providing for 270,000 US dollars as loan repayment on the purchase of the aircrafts."

"Airlanka decided to lease the two Jumbos it bought from Qantas because of the drop in passenger traffic from the main income generating markets in Western Europe. The airline is also negotiating the lease of a second Boeing to Qantas. The aircraft was bought from the Australian airline for 23.5 million US dollars..." — (Daily News — 22.4.86)

Kantalai Tank breaches the bund

At least 30,000 people were rendered homeless and 25 feared dead when the Kantalai tank bund burst at dawn yesterday inundating vast areas including some 35 villages and 21,500 acres of paddy and sugar. The armed forces and the Police launched a massive relief operation. In four and a half hours, they moved some 18,000 displaced people to two hurriedly set up refugee camps. Brigadier Harsha Gunaratne, Co-ordinating Officer of Trincomalee who is directing operations said a fleet of Navy patrol boats and helicopters had been detailed on this unprecedented exercise. The 42-foot high bund which held some 110,000 acres of water had been breached at a spot near the rest house from where water had been previously leaking. There was no immediate reason to suspect sabotage, he said. The Kantalai tank, which draws the Mahaweli waters through Minneriya Wewa and Yoda Ela, besides the Gal Oya and the Alut Oya, lies west of the Kantalai town in the Trincomalee district. It is 138 miles north east of Colombo... — (Sun — 21.4.86)

"Lands and Mahaweli Secretary Nanda Abeywickreme said that according to latest figures, 30 bodies have been recovered and 25 are missing in the Kantalai tragedy. The refugees who numbered 8,000 on Sunday were 1,500 by Tuesday and would have reduced further with more going back to their homes, he said." — (Daily News — 24.4.86)

Petroleum store goes up in flames

"Colombo and Anuradhapura were yesterday rocked by two terrorist bombs which killed 9 persons and injured several others, damaging the Wellawatte Police Station and sending sky-high flames through the Ceylon Petroleum Corporation's bulk storage depot at Anuradhapura. The Wellawatte bomb, a five kilogram monster packing a heavy charge, seriously injured two policemen and a private coach driver but fortunately cost no lives."

"The Anuradhapura explosion was more lethal, killing nine people — some CPC employees and two others — and causing heavy damage to a secretion of the bulk storage depot... Police said that investigations suggested that a bowser drawing supplies for Mankulam had carried the bomb into the depot. Inquiries are under way to determine how the bombers had succeeded in getting the explosives into the facility despite the ironclad rule that no bowser is admitted to the facility without a 24-hour wait in the yard... Anuradhapura police have not yet established whether they were the regular bowser crew or two others. But police are fairly certain that the explosives that caused the blast were in that vehicle... The CPC chief who declined to say how much oil was stored at the depot for security reasons, rushed a team to Anuradhapura to inspect the damage..." — (Daily News — 24.4.86)

Pistols and shotguns seized

"A retired school teacher who had acquired a gunsmith's skills and could produce a firearm at his backyard workshop in a couple of hours, has been taken into custody by the Wanduramba police who have also recovered an arsenal of 26 pistols and 12 shotguns. Galle's Senior S.P., W.A. Weeraratne told the 'Daily News' that the 60-year old gunsmith sold his homemade arms at prices ranging from Rs. 500 to Rs.1,000 and did not lack custom. A total of 32 people who were bought the school master's guns have been rounded up and police are busy tracing a number of weapons he had made and sold." — (Daily News — 23.4.86)

Colombo youth had grenade

"A youth who was found to be in possession of a grenade was arrested near the Secretariat railway halt in Colombo Fort and remanded till April 30 by the Joint Magistrate Colombo Fort, Quintus Perera. The suspect, Antony Bernard, alias Rosa was arrested on a tip-off received by the Colombo Fort Police" — (Sun — 21.4.86)

Cyanide story and Correction

"The CID have taken seven men into custody following the discovery of a large quantity of cyanide in a Grandpass business premises supplying the gram trade in the city."

"We are happy that the schools are now on vacation. We have not established why the cyanide was where we found it, but are glad that the gram business is slack now, with school children enjoying their April holidays", a source close to the investigation said.

"A detention order under emergency Regulations has been served on the 7 suspects, now in custody on the order of the Senior Deputy Inspector General of Police in charge of the CID, Tyrell Gunatileke. Sources said the gram shop dealt largely in peanuts, which have a ready sale outside the schools. A police source said that in the light of this discovery it would be prudent if parents ensured that their children kept off gram and other "street foods".

"The owner of the premises where the cyanide was found is a man from Ratnapura, police said. The other suspects come from Hatton, Akkaraipattu and Batticaloa. Investigations have suggested that the shopowner was a close associate of Paul Jayaseelan, whom police want to interview in connection with the investigation of the recent Maligawatte bomb attempt." — (Daily News — 19.4.86)

The govt. correction

"The Daily News in its issue of Saturday April 19th, 1986, carried a news item 'CYANIDE IN GRAM SHOP: 7 ARRESTED'. The ministry of National Security wishes to inform that there is no truth in the story and that no arrests have been made in this connection."

Daha faces expulsion

"Dr. W. Dahanayake, MP for Galle who was only last month sworn in as Minister of Co-operatives, now faces expulsion from the United National Party. He is to be summoned before the party's working committee when it meets next to explain why he did not support the candidature of Albert Silva at the Akmeemana by election."

"An exclusively reported in yesterday's SUN, President J.R. Jayewardene, told a rally that would up the UNP's by election campaign at Akmeemana that disciplinary action would be taken against Dr. Dahanayake. According to UNP sources, even

2 crowded trains to North

"Around 2,600 people left Colombo for Jaffna yesterday on two special trains which terminated at Vavuniya, officials said. From Vavuniya they were transported to Jaffna in state run buses, they said. The train service to the north was resumed only yesterday after the Yal Devi was set on fire at Omanthai on March 25th. The trains were operating only up to Anuradhapura."

"Railway authorities said advance bookings could only be made if passengers were obtaining return tickets. On Thursday alone more than 500 passengers had bought return tickets. Last morning large crowds gathered at the Maradana Station from 4 a.m. to buy tickets. Already more than 200 persons had made advance reservations for this morning's train, officials said. The two trains that left Maradana at 5.50 a.m. and 7.10 a.m. had nine coaches each. They will run again on April 15th and 16th, they said..."— (SUN — 12.4.86)

Ex-Diplomat's son arrested

"Ramanujam Manikkalingam, 23, son of the late Mr. K. Manikkalingam, career Foreign Service officer and onetime Ambassador to Indonesia, was arrested by Police last Saturday, a National Security Ministry spokesman said. He said that the young man, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, reported missing since March 27, had been picked up on suspicion by a policeman, while he was riding a bus from Batticaloa to Colombo.

"He is being investigated for terrorist connections and is in custody... We had reports from our missions in Canberra and Washington that various people and organisations had been lobbied by Eelam groups about this "missing" person. Although he was supposed to have been missing from home from March 27, he was reported missing only on April 1", the spokesman said. The spokesman said that the suspect's next of kin had been informed of his arrest and that the case is receiving "most careful attention".

"A Ministry News release said that there was prima facie evidence that the suspect was involved "in activities contrary to the ordinary law and the emergency law" and his own statements support this evidence. The interest of security precluded revealing details known at present, the news release said..."— (Daily News — 23.4.86)

BBC report on Lanka

"Several hundred political opponents of the government in Sri Lanka have been detained or are reported missing, the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) reported on Sunday. In its World Service broadcast, the BBC said between 200 and 300 persons suspected of leftist political leanings have been detained by the police or are missing and unaccounted for.

In a report filed from Colombo, the BBC cited the instances of the recent disappearance of a diplomat's son and the abduction of five Buddhist monks who staged a fast unto death, as example of such disappearances. They are an attempt by the government to curb growing political dissent, the BBC said. The broadcast also quoted Attanagalle MP Lakshman Jayakody as having accused the government of orchestrating the disappearances. Mr. Jayakody was unavailable for comment yesterday. A member of his household said he was out of Colombo.

National Security Minister Lalith Athulathmudali is quoted by the BBC as saying that the number arrested was about 50. They were extremists committed to the setting up of a marxist state in Sri Lanka through violence and when arrested were found with arms in their possession, Minister Athulathmudali has said, explaining the detention, the BBC broadcasts said..."— (SUN — 22.4.86)
